

February 2023

Congratulations!

The Southwest Climate Hub team extends congratulations and thanks to Dr. Joel Brown, Southwest Climate Hub's senior science advisor since 2014. Friday, February 24 will be Joel's last day as a senior scientist and leader of the National Ecological Site Team with the Natural Resources Conservation Service. Over his 45-year career Joel has become one of the most influential rangeland scientists of his generation. Joel's scientific accomplishments (including over 100 published papers) have provided visionary leadership to the rangeland community and the USDA Southwest Climate Hub.

Joel, thank you for your leadership, generosity, kindness, and stellar sense of humor. We wish you the very best in your next chapter.

Join our mailing list

- USDA Southwest Climate Hub website
- SW Climate Hub
- Come Rain or Shine
- @USDAClimateHubs
- Email